COACH DICK MOTTA

"I believe in luck, and the harder I work, the luckier I get." . . . This paraphrased slogan has been on Dick Motta's locker room blackboard since he began his coaching career . . . This is a perfect introduction to the new head coach of the CHICAGO BULLS . . . With an intense desire to succeed and a thirst for work, Motta has recorded a mark that is difficult to match . . . Motta, who comes to Chicago from Weber State College in Ogden, Utah, subscribes to the theory that the tougher the opposition, the better his squads play . . . As a senior college coach, Motta has won eighty percent of his games, and seldom did he fail to win more than twenty games during a season . . . A man who loves to win, and hates to lose, Motta is a devoted student of the game of basketball . . . His clinical mind can analyze a player or a team . . . Dick works hard with his players . . . He believes in conditioning and knows that well trained and dedicated players will succeed . . . A proponent of fast-break or power basketball, Motta demands much from his players, and those who respond will find that they will achieve what Motta expects from them . . . Since Motta began coaching he has won six conference championships in nine years . . . Dick is a graduate of Utah State University, and was born in Medvale, Utah . . . He is 36 years of age, is married to the former Janice Fraser . . . The couple has three children, 2 sons and a daughter . . . After graduating from Utah State in 1953, Motta began his career at Grace Idaho Junior High School . . . The next two years he saw active duty with the Air Force as an officer . . . Graduate work at Colorado State and Utah State, led to a master's degree, and then he came to Weber State . . . In Weber States' transition year from a two year to four year senior college, the Motta men raced to a 22-4 record and a national college division ranking . . . In 1964-65 the Weber State Wildcats ran up their best record in history with 22 wins and three losses, and captured the Big Sky Crown, and marked Weber State as a full-fledged major basketball school . . . In 12 years as coach of Weber State, Motta has compiled an overall record of 237 victories against 64 defeats . . . A quiet and soft spoken man, Dick feels that every game he's in is a personal war . . . Dick Motta and his family reside in Northbrook, Illinois.

TOM BOERWINKLE—Chicago Bulls

A slow and awkward freshman who ran out of gas early, he worked on his speed, quickness and conditioning and was voted the best rebounder in the Southeastern Conference his senior year. Tennessee's No. 2 scorer with a 12-point average, the Independence, Ohio native is 7-foot tall and weighs 260 pounds. Appropriately named the "Bull," he was the Bulls' top draft choice.

ROBERT BOOZER

Born April 26, 1937. Height 6:08. Weight 215.
Alma Mater—Kansas State '59.

Traded by Cincinnati to New York in three-club deal, December 16, 1963, with Cincinnati receiving cash from New York and Larry Staverman from Detroit while Detroit sent John Egan to New York and received Donnis Butcher and Bob Duffy from New York.

Traded by New York to Los Angeles for Dick Barnett October 14, 1965.

Selected from Los Angeles by Chicago Bulls in expansion draft, May 1, 1966.

Chicago Bulls

MEET THE BULLS' WORKING STAFF

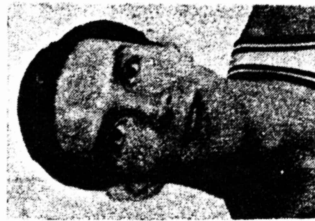

BEN BENTLEY, Director of Public Relations, is a key man of the Chicago Bulls' family. A versatile publicity man, Ben is well-known across the country as a real "pro" in his line of work. All the wonderful coverage the Bulls have received in the press is due to his never-ending efforts. Ben is married and has two youngsters, 9 and 10.

RILEY MORGAN, Business Manager, is the "detail" man in the Bulls' organization. He is responsible for making all transportation and lodging arrangements for the team for exhibition games as well as during the regular season and playoffs. A graduate of Denison University, Riley is married and resides in the Chicago area.

4 JERRY SLOAN 6-5 195 G AGE 26 PRO 3 YRS. EVANSVILLE

Jerry is one of the outstanding competitors in sports. Shooting ability coupled with superb defensive talents make him one of the best all-around backcourt men in the game. Aggressiveness and courage make him a favorite of fans. Repeatedly slammed to the floor because of dare-devil moves, he shirks off his injuries and rarely asks for rest. Jerry is a good position player with an uncanny knack for drawing opponents into offensive fouls. He started at McLeansboro, Illinois, High School; at Evansville college, he earned small college All-American honors, leading his team through the unbeaten 1964-65 season. Jerry lives in Evansville, Indiana, with his wife and two children.

5 FLYNN ROBINSON 6-1 185 G AGE 27 PRO 3 YRS. WYOMING

"In-like-Flynn" Robinson, the greatest scorer in the history of basketball at Wyoming, was a second round draft choice by the Cincinnati Royals three years ago. The frisky little guard came to the Chicago Bulls in a trade that sent Guy Rodgers to the Royals last October. Since that time Robby has been one of the mainstays of the Chicago Bulls, and has earned the nickname of the "Gunner" by his teammates. His torrid shooting has won many a game for the Bulls, and his 41 points against the Los Angeles Lakers in a play-off game last March 27 was a career high for Flynn, besides winning the game for the Bulls. He is a bachelor; he and teammate Tom Boerwinkle are the only pair on the Bulls still not married. In off-season Flynn resides in Chicago, where he works with various youth organizations. He is considered the most dapper dresser on the team, and is kidded by his mates for wearing the "far-out" types of suits.

6 ERWIN MUELLER6-8 230 F*AGE 24*PRO 3 YRS.*SAN FRANCISCO

Erwin "Wolfgang" Mueller first came to the Chicago Bulls when he was drafted from the University of San Francisco in 1966. After an outstanding season as a rookie playing center for the Bulls in their first season, Mueller went on to be named on the All-N.B.A. Rookie Team during that 1966-67 season. At the University of San Francisco, he won all-conference, all-coast, and All-American honors. Erwin was traded last year to Los Angeles for Jim Barnes. He averaged 10.3 points per game, and picked up 112 rebounds in a Los Angeles uniform. Mueller is happy to be back with the Bulls, playing the one position he loves best—forward. He is married, and has a two year old daughter. He lives in Riverside, Ill., and in off-season works for the city in youth work. His team mates regard him as a "work-horse" on the Club, always anxious to get into the game and help. This year he's been given the nick-name of the "fireman".

7 JIM WASHINGTON6-6 200 F*AGE 25*PRO 3 YRS.*VILLANOVA

Blessed with remarkable jumping ability and cat-quick reflexes, Jim probably goes higher than any player in the League, and soars over opponents several inches taller. He practically flies in for dunk shots. While doubling as a Center, he set a club record of 24 rebounds against Boston's great player-coach, Bill Russell. Jim played his rookie year at St. Louis as the Hawk's No. 1 draft choice. He is a product of the Philadelphia playgrounds which produced Wilt Chamberlain, Guy Rodgers and other N.B.A. stars. He earned national recognition at Villanova where he set school records with 1,000 points and over 1,000 rebounds during his three-year varsity career. As a center, teaming with the 76ers' Wally Jones, he was named to the Catholic All-American Team. Jim lives on Chicago's south side with his wife and daughter.

9 KEN WILBURN 6-6 195 F AGE 24 PRO 1 YR. OHIO STATE

At River Rouge, Michigan, High School, Ken won a Basketball scholarship to Central States Ohio University in Wilberforce, Ohio. Majoring in physical education, he established a new scoring record at Central States with 44 baskets in a single game. He also established a new University scoring record in three years. Drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers in 1966, Ken stayed with Philly through their pre-season tour and training period, where he was spotted by a Bulls' scout. Having reported to the Bulls at the end of last season, he is now a regular member of the team, fully determined to make it big in the N.B.A. He is a good rebounder and a tough player under the boards. The Wilburns have one son, Ken, Jr.

11 CLEM HASKINS 6-2 195 G AGE 24 PRO 1 YR. WESTERN KY.

The Bulls' 1967 No. 1 draft choice is one of the most versatile players to come out of the college ranks. Primarily a forward at Western Kentucky, he was a spectacular jump shooter and an excellent ball handler with the quickness to convert to backcourt. Named Ohio Valley Conference "player of the year" in all three of his varsity seasons, as well as an All-American, Clem was Western's all-time scoring leader with a career total of 1680 points and a 22.1 game average. He holds the Ohio Valley Conference single scoring record with 55 points and 25 field goals. Nick-named "Clem the gem" he was brought up on a farm in Campbellsville, Kentucky, is deeply religious, and devotes much time to church work. In his rookie year with the Bulls, Clem made 679 points for a 8.9 average.

12 DAVE NEWMARK 7-0 260 C AGE 22 PRO 0 YRS. COLUMBIA

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Dave Newmark launched his basketball career at the age of 13, playing in the schoolyards of Brooklyn. Later he was named a high school All-American as a senior at Abraham Lincoln High. At Columbia University, Dave averaged 17.8 points per game and 14.9 rebounds. With 550 points, he was the Lion's leading sophomore scorer, while his 197 field goals ranked him second in Columbia's all-time season records. His varied off-court activities include extensive traveling, earning the role of understudy in a Broadway show, and following N.B.A. games around the country in TV production. As a 7 foot giant, he's confident that he can help the Bulls more on the floor than as a telecaster.

14 JIM BARNES 6-8 232 F AGE 27 PRO 4 YRS. TEX. WESTERN

"Just let me play regularly and I'll be a big help to the Bulls" were the first words of Jim Barnes when he came to Chicago last year from the Los Angeles Lakers. Born in Tuckerman, Arkansas, he first dribbled a basketball at the ripe old age of 8. Earning a scholarship to Texas Western, Jim still holds the school basketball scoring record. Being a member of the 1964 Olympic Basketball Team at the Tokyo games was one of the thrilling events of his life. Drafted in 1964 by the New York Knicks as their No. 1 choice, he was traded to the Lakers in 1966. Jim is married and the father of four children, ages 8, 6, 4, and 3.

15 LOY PETERSEN 6-5 205 G AGE 23 PRO 0 YRS. OREGON STATE

As the Bulls second round draft choice, Loy could easily be tabbed a "sleeper" in this year's draft selections. Starting basketball in his home basement, he set a new record for most points scored at Anaheim High School (California). Although Pepperdine College in Los Angeles awarded him a scholarship, he transferred to Oregon State after one semester, where he became the fifth highest scorer in Oregon State's history with a 10.5 average. In 1967 he won the Oregon State University most valuable player award and captained the 1968 team. Loy is married, and lives in River Forest.

16 BARRY CLEMENS
6-6 210 F AGE 25 PRO 3 YRS. OHIO WESLEYAN

One of the best pure shooters on the Bulls, Barry's scrambling, hustling type of basketball has made him a regular on the team. A native of Xenia, Ohio, Barry was a small college All-American as a center at Ohio Wesleyan. He compiled a 20.3 scoring average during his varsity career, following which he was drafted by the New York Knicks, and then joined the Bulls two years ago. A brilliant pre-med student at Ohio Wesleyan on an academic scholarship, Barry plans to continue his studies and to become a dentist when his playing days are over. Barry and his wife live in Chicago.

18 TOM BOERWINKLE 7-0 270 C AGE 23 PRO 0 YRS. TENNESSEE

A slow and awkward freshman who ran out of gas after a few minutes of play at the University of Tennessee, 7 foot giant Tom Boerwinkle developed into a fully matured and dangerous basketball center in his senior year, when he was voted the best conference rebounder by Southeastern Conference players.

A native of Independence, Ohio, Tom earned these words of praise from Tennessee coach, Ray Mears: "He's the best developed player I've ever coached, and I've never met anyone with more determination. He'll be a big success with the Bulls if they will be just a little patient with him." Tom was the Bulls' No. 1 draft choice this season.

19 BOB BOOZER 6-8 225 F AGE 31 PRO 8 YRS. KANSAS STATE

After a great college career at Kansas State, where he made All-American as well as the U. S. Olympic team, Bob Boozer was Cincinnati's first draft choice in 1960. After playing with Cincinnati, New York and Los Angeles, Bob came to the Bulls in the expansion draft two years ago. A deadly shooter with a .487% from the floor, he is noted for his soft jump shot, and a clutch player. He is also an accurate "off-center" foul shooter who lines up his right foot with the right edge of the backboard. Last season Bob was the Bulls' captain and player representative. Married, and active in youth work, Bob lives in Omaha during the off season, where he grew up with baseball's Bob Gibson and football's Gayle Sayers.
